Farm health program

GROUPS of farmers are now invited to apply to have the award-winning Sustainable Farm Families program delivered in their community.

The no-fuss program offering practical advice has already proved life-changing for many past participants.

The Department of Primary Industries project manager Emily Moule said workshops are broken down into yearly sessions with long-term follow ups focusing on practical steps to improve the lives of farm families.

Groups are encouraged to contact 136 186.
