

Television

WIN Ballarat , Ballarat

WIN News: 02 Sep

2010 06:41PM

Compere: Bruce Roberts

A Vic govt audit of a Farmer Health program operating from Hamilton has found that Victorians from rural and remote areas generally have poorer health than those in major cities. The Sustainable Farm Families program was created by Western District Heath Services and piloted by the National Centre for Farmer Health. The Auditor-General found that the DPI, which funds the program, failed to prioritise locations most in need of the program.