

FOCUS ON FARMING FAMILY HEALTH

Sue Brumby, Western District Health, conducts an individual health assessment at the Benalla workshop

Farm Management 500 is proud to be a leading collaborator in the Sustainable Farming Families Project funded by Rural Industries Research and Development Corporation. Farm Management 500 members are being invited to participate in especially designed health workshops for rural and farming people. The workshops include up to date health and dietary information and a complete individual health assessment. Many members will have received invitations to attend regional workshops. Farm Management 500 is looking forward to assisting in the analysis of data from this project and promoting the outcomes to the wider farming community.
