

Sustainable Farm Families

Stawell Regional Health is the latest health service to conduct the award-winning Sustainable Farm Families program. The program aims to change behaviour to promote health and reduce injury and illness.

Sustainable Farm Families is an initiative of Western District Health Service, Hamilton in partnership with the Victorian Department of Primary Industries, and with the support of Stawell Regional Health and the Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF).

The Stawell program was held on February 24th and 25th and involved 20 farmers from Pomonal, Halls Gap, Landsborough, Marnoo and Dadswells Bridge.

Local VFF president Kevin Jess is pictured having a 'hands on' look at surgical equipment with Michelle Jess and Dianne Erwin.
