... answering the big questions

When a scourge confronts humankind, where will you be?

What are the health implications of this unknown outbreak?

What are the implications for the farming community and sheep industry?

What does a biosecurity outbreak mean to humans in a health context?

Will there be enough lamb cutlets available for our Australia Day BBQ's?

'Farmers are classic optimists. We don't let ourselves think of the potential consequences of an industry disaster...

I expect this hypothetical discussion will highlight some serious gaps in our armoury, but also show what opportunities there are for strong leadership to make a positive difference during times of crisis', Esther Price
